 4. GO(P) No.7/2019/SPD dated 26/04/2019.

ORDER

The Stores Purchase Manual had been revised as per the Government Order read 1st paper above and the same has been published in the official website www.spd.kerala.gov.in.

2. As per the Government Order read 2nd paper above, Government decided to implement a Centralized Procurement System in Government, for the purchase of commonly used hardware items such as PCs, Laptops, Printers, Scanners etc...by departments, PSUs/Boards/Commissions/autonomous bodies etc...through an online government portal. Government Departments and Government owned/controlled institutions including LSGIs shall procure the aforesaid IT hardware devices only through this system (<http://cprcs.kerala.gov.in/>). A detailed guidelines regarding the procurement through CPRCS were issued vide Government Order cited 3rd above.

3. As per the Government Order read 4th paper above, the procurement of Goods and Services above Rs.25000/- through Government -e- Marketplace (GeM) shall be made mandatory for all Government Departments. After this decision of Government, Electronics & Information Technology Department pointed out the contradiction of both the Government Orders and requested revise the GO read 4th above and to exempt CPRCS from it.

4. Government have examined the matter in detail and are pleased to incorporate Centralized Procurement and Rate Contract System (CPRCS) as a mode of procurement in the revised Stores Purchase Manual (SPM) as para 7.52. as follows:

Centralized Procurement and Rate Contract System (CPRCS)

7.52. In order to revamp the operational processes, Centralized Procurement and Rate Contract System (CPRCS), an online rate contract portal is adopted as a mode of procurement, which implemented by Electronics and IT Department with KSITM to facilitate online procurement of commonly used hardware items required by various Government Departments / Organizations / PSUs etc. The Purchasing Officers should follow the guidelines issued by E&IT Department from time to time.

5. The SPM 2013 is amended to that extent.
